

The new BHI B-Tac Quick-Adjust Sling from Blackheart International is a cost-effective tactical rifle upgrade that goes from loose-carry to combat-ready in a flash.

BHI Delivers The Ultimate Combat Rifle Sling For An Economically Low Price

The need to quickly adjust the length of your rifle sling in order to transition between fast-changing tactical situations is a notion that every experienced soldier and law enforcement officer can appreciate. Blackheart International's just-released BHI "B-Tac" Quick-Adjust Sling for M4/AR-style rifles satisfies that often overlooked asset in a tactical weapon system.

The BHI "B-Tac" Quick-Adjust Sling is based off of the same design incorporated into BHI's new RPG Launcher Sling. Constructed of heavy-duty, 1.25-inch wide Denier nylon webbing (versus one-inch straps common with competing sling designs) for enhanced weight distribution, and featuring a long, comfortable shoulder pad for maximum user comfort, the B-Tac Sling comes in two versions. Model numbers BH-000-009-CT (tan) and BH-000-

009-BK (black) feature removable Quick-Detach (QD) swivels to allow the strap to be swapped between rifles with QD or conventional strap swivels. Model numbers BH-000-010-CT (tan) and BH-000-101-BK (black) have the QD swivels sewn-in to eliminate excess strap, making them compatible for use on any M4/AR-based rifle equipped with Quick-Detach mounting points.

The heart of the sling system is the quick-adjust buckle and strap assembly. By simply pulling the adjustment strap with the rifle support (free) hand, the sling can transition the firearm from "loose-carry" to a solid, tight-to-the-body shooting position in a blink, or anywhere in-between. This makes the sling ideal for quickly anchoring the rifle for a secure and accuracy-enhancing shooting position. By lifting the strap's upper "rucksack-style" buckle, the sling length can just as quickly be adjusted for a longer length, depending on the operator's tactical requirements. Another benefit is that the adjustment strap does not hang loose like other models, but is an integrated unit.

Another feature not common to most slings is the lower Fastex buckle assembly. This item permits the sling to quickly separate, or allow the rifle to be "cut away" from the operator, if needed.

Surprisingly, in spite of its advanced design and superior material construction, the BHI B-Tac Quick-Adjust Sling is priced at nearly half the cost of comparable slings currently on the market, making it an ideal equipment upgrade for individual soldiers or law enforcement officers, as well as agencies on a tight budget.

IN MEMORIAM

For those Special Forces soldiers who gave all during Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF) in Iraq, Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) in Afghanistan, and around the world.

William "Chief" Carlson

KIA Oct. 25, 2003. A member of the Special Operations community, Carlson had recently retired after 21 years of military service before working for the Central Intelligence Agency as a civilian contractor. Carlson was one of two CIA contractors killed during an ambush near Shkin—a remote region along the border of Afghanistan and Pakistan—following a six-hour gunfight between Taliban rebels and U.S.-led coalition and Afghan forces.

Christopher Glenn Mueller

KIA Oct. 25, 2003. A former Navy Seal, Mueller spent seven years with the Navy's elite unit before going to school and graduating from UC San Diego. Mueller then joined the CIA, working as a civilian contractor in Afghanistan. There he was killed in the same ambush as William Carlson while pulling an Afghan commander friend to safety.

Mark Barry Metherell

KIA April 11, 2008. Metherell, of Laguna Beach, California, was an eight-year Navy Seals veteran. He was working as a U.S. military contractor helping to train Iraqi Security Forces. Metherell was on patrol with his trainees when the lead vehicle he was in was hit by an IED.

Tung M. Nguyen

KIA Nov. 14, 2006. A 20-year U.S. Army veteran and member of the 3rd Special Forces Group (Airborne), Nguyen began his military service in 1986 with the 4th Bn., 22nd Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division (Light) at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. He served in several instructor and operations capacities before his assignment with the 3rd SFG. Nguyen died of a gunshot wound during combat operations in Baghdad, Iraq, in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Anthony Ray Yost

KIA Nov. 19, 2005. Master Sergeant Anthony Ray Charles Yost, 39, a Special Forces Operational Detachment - Alpha Team sergeant assigned to 3rd Battalion, 3rd Special Forces Group (Airborne) at Fort Bragg, N.C., was killed in Iraq as a result of an explosion which occurred inside a building in Mosul. Yost led a group of SF and IA soldiers into a house held by insurgents. During their search, an explosion occurred and the building collapsed. Yost was killed by the blast. His actions that day earned Yost the Silver Star Medal for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity.

ing as the Detachment Commander, Operational Detachment Alpha 765 (ODA-765), Company A, 2d Battalion, 7th Special Forces Group (Airborne), during combat operations in support of Operation ENDURING FREEDOM, on 24 June 2006, at Pashmul, Kandahar, Afghanistan. Captain Ford's courageous actions and determined leadership in the face of an overwhelming attack by a well-armed and determined enemy force prevented the destruction of his encircled detachment. His gallantry, dedication to duty, and selfless sacrifice exemplified the warrior ethos by decisively engaging and defeating a numerically superior force, rescuing two wounded soldiers, and forcing the Taliban retreat.

Sarun Sar

Master Sgt. Sarun Sar, assigned to the Special Operations Command - Pacific, was awarded the Silver Star for heroism in a firefight while supporting Operation Enduring Freedom in eastern Afghanistan. While conducting aerial reconnaissance, the first Blawhawk helicopter landed and immediately came under enemy fire. Sar landed in the second helicopter, dismounted, and rushed to prevent the enemy from damaging the aircraft and harming his team members. He pursued one of the attackers into a building, and was struck in the helmet with a round from an AK-47 assault rifle fired from 7-10 feet away. After establishing that the wound was not life threatening, he finished the fight, then he and his men administered first aid to two injured Afghan civilians, stabilizing them for medical evacuation to a coalition hospital.
